OUTBREAKS IN BELFAST AND DUBLIN; HOPES WANE

Street Fighting In Troubled Cities Continues

CONFERENCE ENDS

Open Civil War Apparently On Eve Of Breaking

(Reuter's Service)
London, April 21.—The hopes based on yesterday's resumed peace conference at Dublin have been disappointed, the delegates adjourning till April 26 after a three-hour sitting in which they failed to reach an agreement.

Meantime, skirmishes between the pro-Treaty and anti-Treaty forces are occurring with increasing frequency at Dublin though both seem hesitant to take any irreconcilable step which would precipitate a regular, civil war.

Firing was proceeding simultaneously in half a dozen parts of the city yesterday, machine-guns being brought in use. The most serious attack was that on the telephone exchange which a Free State guard repulsed. The City Hall was also attacked. Anti-Treaty forces last night unsuccessfully attacked Wellington Barracks, the fighting lasting an hour.

The uneasiness is increased by recent large seizures of explosives by the Republicans. Bombing and street-fighting continue to claim daily victims at Belfast, where savagery seems to have become endemic.

(China Press Service)
Dublin, April 20.—Last night was the worst since Easter. There was continuous rifle and machine gun firing. Several buildings including the headquarters of the provisional government were attacked. There was terrific firing by the attackers but they were beaten off.

Provisional government armored cars took part in the street fighting. Only one casualty was reported.

It is announced that the labor party will issue a manifesto calling a general strike in Ireland "as a protest against militarism."

(China Press Service)
Belfast, April 20.—Sniping was resumed today. The death toll since Tuesday is eight.

DR. MOTT SPEAKS TO MASS MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

Special music will be rendered by the glee clubs of Shanghai College and McTiers School.

Admission will be by ticket secured from the Y.M.C.A. or the Y.W.C.A. Students are advised to come early, as the seating capacity of the hall is taxed.

Chita Soldiers Frozen To Death

(Reuter's Service)
Petrozavodsk, Russian Karelia, March 30.—More Red army soldiers were frozen to death than killed in action in the recent campaigns in the semi-arctic Karelian woods against the Finnish-Karelian insurgents. A report of the army staff says 145 were killed in action and 257 frozen.

The warfare was a conflict between fur-clad troops on skis and snowshoes in the woods.

British Court Ruling Denies Bulk Of Claims In Pomeroy-Quech Suit

One Contention Of Plaintiff Regarding Sale Of Property In Canada Upheld Only In Part In Judge Grain's Decision

In a decision handed down yesterday by Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court, the bulk of the claims made by Mr. P. F. Pomeroy in his suit against Mr. Henry Quech of Garner, Quech and Co from March 31, 1915 until March 1, 1921, but not continuously. In March 1920 Quech decided to go to Europe and before starting arrangements to leave Pomeroy in charge of the business in Shanghai, gives him a power of attorney to carry on the business on behalf of the firm and also written instructions as to his duties during the absence of his employer. Quech returns to Shanghai about March 1, 1921 and on finding that Pomeroy had left Shanghai, contrary to his instructions, for the purpose of making a trip to America, Japan and Canada, Quech cables to Pomeroy on March 10th: "Power of attorney cancelled, your services not required," which Pomeroy received somewhere about March 16. He also wrote a formal letter of dismissal to Pomeroy's private and business addresses in Shanghai. Pomeroy returned to Shanghai somewhere towards the end of April, 1921, and according to Quech, expressed no surprise at his dismissal, and it was not until November 14, 1921 when Quech received a letter from Pomeroy's lawyers that he knew that Pomeroy considered he had any claim against him.

CLAIMED TIS. 7,000 SALARY
Pomeroy claimed Tis. 7,000 as salary and commission and as damages for wrongful dismissal. Pomeroy also claimed money expended by him on his trip to America, Canada, and Japan, alleging that such sums were spent on behalf of the firm, namely, Yen 200, Canadian $1,452.56 and U. S. $2,480.68. Pomeroy also claimed Tis. 5,000 on the ground that it was agreed that he was to receive a bonus on Quech's return, and further claimed that the defendant Quech agreed to buy a house from him, the plaintiff Pomeroy, from Kasio, Canada, and did buy it at the price of U. S. $4,000 which has not yet been paid.

The defendant Quech maintains that he had a right to dismiss the plaintiff under their agreement at a month's notice and further that he was justified by the conduct of the plaintiff in so doing. That neither he himself nor the firm were responsible for the expenses incurred by Pomeroy on his trip to Canada and America on the grounds that he made the trip in defiance of his employers orders and further the plaintiff did not make the journey on behalf of the firm, but had invoiced the goods to himself with the object of making a secret profit for himself, and Quech counterclaimed for Tis. 4,847.83 paid by the firm on the goods used by Pomeroy on his trip and for the sum of Tis. 5,585.40, the amount the plaintiff of the Court for seven full days and so many issues were raised I fear my judgment must of necessity be of some length.

CHANG'S SKIRMISHERS FIRED UPON BY WU'S SHANTUNG ADHERENTS

Fengtien Outposts Meet First Resistance In Their Advance Along Tientsin-Pukow Railway; Three Miles Of Track Torn Up

MUKDEN GENERAL GETS 3 SURPRISES

Both Factions Continue To Strengthen Positions, With Grave Danger Of Clash Without Orders; Chihli Troops Move Farther South

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, April 21.—The Chihliites from near Machang have gone south, covered by men of the 5th Shantung Division, who previously took up positions along the Tientsin-Pukow line. A few rifleshots were exchanged between the Shantung and Fengtien advanced posts, but no casualties resulted. The Shantung men afterwards tore up eight li of the railway lines.

This so-called clash is considered unimportant and is not likely to affect the general situation, but the fact that the Shantung troops are supporting General Wu Pei-fu, together with General Chao Ti's failure to harass General Wu and the doubtful attitude of General Lu Yung-hsiang, upon whom General Chang Tso-lin had counted, is expected to influence General Chang against a precipitation of hostilities.

General Chang is again asserting that he does not want to fight but is prepared to remove all obstacles to the reunification plan. He says that he intends to protect the capital during the proposed national conference.

Meanwhile, the Fengtien troops at Changhsintien are being strengthened as are also General Wu's forces at Luli-hou and the danger of the troops themselves clashing without orders is daily increasing.

BY JOSEF W. HALL

(China Press Staff Writer)

Peking, April 21.—General Wang Shih-chien, who is mediating in the Fengtien-Chihli struggle, proposes to create balanced military power in the neighborhood of Peking and Tientsin during the proposed convention on national reunification, which will be so arranged so that General Wu Pei-fu will be willing to participate in the deliberations.

Conditions here favoring a peace settlement of the breach are Chang Tso-lin's realization that although he has funds, his troops would go to pieces if fighting lasts more than ten days and Wu Pei-fu's financial destitution, which, in the event of his victory would leave him in a similar but, aggravated precarious position following his victory in Hankow in 1921 in his campaign against the Hupel insurgents.

Victory could bring him only expenses and no funds, unless he could come into possession of the Mukden treasury, which amounts to over $30,000,000 in cash. This is practically impossible. Therefore, literally he cannot afford even to be victorious.

Moreover, Chang Tso-lin now has a growing feeling that he has been misled by Anfu troublemakers into a "cul de sac." It is believed that all the disturbances that have been inspired by these men in Shantung cannot be obliterated there is a possibility that the civil strife may be prevented from breaking out on any large scale.

FIRST "BATTLE"
(Special To The China Press)
Tsinan, April 21.—The first skirmish between Chihli and Fengtien troops took place at Machang, about 25 miles south of Tientsin, this morning it is authoritatively learned. The Chihli forces, having torn up 17 miles of railways between Tsingchow and Tangkwantun to prevent the Mukden troops from reaching their objective, Hsuehchow, opened fire and a minor engagement took place.

The Mukden forces under the command of General Kan Chow-hai responded. The Chihli forces, which consists of part of the 26th Division, was directed by General Chang Kuo-yin, in command of the "East Column" of the Chihli Army. Only minor casualties were recorded.

Machang became a historical town in 1917 when Chang Hsun started his monarchical restoration. It was in Machang that General Tuan Chih-jui gathered a handful of soldiery from General Li Chang-tai and started his famous march against the notorious monarchist.

(Dah Tong News Bureau)
Peking, April 21.—Wu Pei-fu's strategy is to utilize his crack soldiery to cut a wedge into the mass of Fengtien forces along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway in order to cut them into sections.

General Wang Ching-sheng, the Co-director of the Chihli Military Affairs, is hesitating because he did not wish to take the offensive in the pending struggle.

AIM AT HSUEHCHOW
Both Fengtien and Chihli are aiming at the capture of Hsuehchow, Kiangsu. In order to check their movements, both the Kiangsu and Anhui Military Governors have dispatched heavy forces to guard the point.

The transportation of Mukden soldiers continues on the Peking-Mukden and Tsinpu lines. Three more days will be required to pour a force equal to the strength of the Chihli Army within the Great Wall, according to military experts. After this is done, Chang Tso-lin will announce his unification plan. If he receives an appreciable amount of support, he will proceed to Tientsin in person and call the convention to order. Otherwise he would resort to some other measure.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, April 18.—While the efforts of mediators are continuing with commendable zeal at Mukden and Loyang preparations for war are proceeding methodically and without cessation. Both foreigners and Chinese recently returned from Mukden and Chengchow state that war is accepted as an unavoidable certainty in those camps.

Leading Figures In Coal Strike

UNIONISED coal mines throughout America are closed and about 735,000 miners are idle. Here are grouped the leaders of the operators, miners and the Government. The American Federation of Labor is backing the miners, Samuel Gompers, president, has announced. Secretary of Labor Davis is endeavoring to have the operators and union leaders "get together." The strike was caused, declares John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, by the refusal of the operators to agree to new terms. Lewis is backed by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the organization. President J. D. A. Morrow, of the National Coal Association, leader of the situation for the operators, denies that the mines have earned excessive profits.

This Is The Season Of Pilgrimage To Taishan

By Elsie McCormick
The first four months of the Chinese year are the pilgrimage season of Taishan. During this period a daily stream of blue-clad wanderers follow the long stone flights that lead to the South Gate of Heaven. Bound-footed women hobble painfully up the skyward road; old men end the journey at the First Lady Temple, mercifully provided for those too infirm to make the peak, and younger pilgrims come swiftly down from the summit, carrying the red, saw-edged flags that tell of a completed pilgrimage and a lantern which bears of an all-night vigil.

From the days before Confucius, a pilgrimage to the top of Taishan has been considered a means of obtaining rich rewards from the mandarins of Heaven. The mountain's greatest gift is that of many sons; hence dignified pilgrims are seen carrying little dolls carefully wrapped in red cloth, which are sold on the Taoist altars from the base of the mountain to its rocky peak.

ASK FOR HEALTH
Some of the worshippers ask Taishan, the giver of life, to restore members of their family to health. Occasionally a pilgrim comes with the intention of hurling himself down Suicide Cliff, a place where the Pearly Emperor accepts vicarious sacrifices and repays a life for a life. One young woman told us that she had come to pray that her mother-in-law would not die for a hundred years, this unusual sentiment being the probable result of a family quarrel and a demand that the young wife do a bit of penance. A number of the pilgrims seem to have no definite object in mind than to accumulate a "good works" and to submit their souls to a spiritual overhauling. Supplied with bundles of incense sticks and huge tin-foil shoes, large enough to be the grandfather of all ghost money, they drag themselves up the great sinuous flights of stairs, then bound down again next day heart-beaten and ready to accumulate an entirely new crop of sins.

The pilgrim road up the sacred mountain of Taishan properly begins at the Tai Miao Temple, "the pavilion where one bows from afar." It is here that the thrifty people of Taianfu cash in on the religious devotion of the visitors by running a huge fair in the temple courtyard. Silver jewelry, spotted leopards that unfortunately change their spots at the first dab of an inquisitive baby's tongue dwarfed plants that give the grounds a Japanese touch, foreign shaving mirrors, and cigarette holders of clouded jade are the objects that draw out pilgrim purses, decreasing the number of pilgrims.

SUCCESS OF CONFERENCE DEPENDS ON RUSS REPLY

Political Commission To Hold Important Session

FRENCH ANGRY

Poincare To Ask Penalties If Treaty Stands

(China Press Service)
Genoa, April 20.—Mr. Lloyd George announced that the political commission of the conference will meet tomorrow to consider the Russian reply to the Allied proposals.

The success or failure of the conference, it is predicted, depends upon the action taken at this meeting which also will consider the German reply if one is submitted.

Lloyd George said that the German delegates agreed to withdraw from participation in further discussion of Russian affairs at Genoa.

Paris, April 20.—Premier Poincare, with the approval of the cabinet, has instructed the French ambassadors at Allied capitals to insist that penalties be applied to Germany if the Russo-German treaty is permitted to stand. This is to be France's action regardless of what the Genoa conference decides.

Poincare insists that there be no more hesitation in the execution of the Treaty of Versailles.

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 20.—It is reported from Genoa that the currency-subcommittee presided over by Sir Robert Horne, has decided to recommend the convening of a congress of central banks under the aegis of the Bank of England to devise measures to standardize rates of exchange and to deal with other currency problems. Another subcommittee has resolved to recommend complete freedom of exchanges.

ISSUES STATEMENT

(China Press Service)

Paris, April 20.—M. Maurice Gastagne, former High Commissioner to the United States, issued a statement here today regarding the Russian-German treaty, just signed at the Genoa Conference, in which he said: "The Allies face a situation of the utmost significance which requires strong action."

Enough notes have been sent, M. Gastagne said that the time has arrived for the French and British governments to take strong action.

The treaty will give Germany access to a wonderful field of munitions in an industrial war, he said, and shows the importance of the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine because that river will now form a barrier between eastern and western Europe.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, April 20.—Despatches from Genoa forecast that the Russian reply to the London memorandum, which will be delivered tomorrow, will reiterate the fact that the Soviet Government will recognize its pre-war debts, provided the Allies offset the damages inflicted by anti-revolutionary expeditions, and that they will agree to pay the balance if the Allies grant a moratorium and credits.

Genoa, April 20.—Mr. Lloyd George has adhered to his original view of a favorable outcome of the Conference. In an interview with journalists he said: "The Conference will successfully end with the pacification of Europe, and the formulation of schemes for the reconstruction of the devastated continent. Those who desire the failure of the Conference are troublesome persons."

The Prime Minister added that the Russo-German Treaty was serious but presumably the Germans had anticipated their exclusion from the Russian discussions and no further difficulty was expected from them, and that he was also confident that a pact of non-aggression would be concluded.

CALLS IN NOLLET

(French Wireless through Reuters)

Paris, April 20.—M. Poincare today received General Nollet, the President of the Inter-Allied Control Commission.

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 20.—Mr. Leslie Urquhart, Chairman of the Russo-Asiatic Consolidated Company, has been summoned to Genoa.

This is regarded as an indication of the Soviet's acceptance of the principles enabling British owners to resume operations in their Russian properties.

Genoa, April 20.—Delegates to the Conference today split into conclaves and discussed the Russo-German imbroglio. Mr. Lloyd George first conferred with Lord Birkenhead and other British delegates, after which delegates of the Little Entente, Poland and Portugal were admitted to the conference.

The British delegates and those of the other convening powers all lunched together and continued the conversations in the afternoon.

The German delegates, who worked late last night, continued their deliberations this morning. Dr. Walther Rathenau, meanwhile, constantly consulted Signor Schanzer. They are still undecided as to the nature of their reply to the Allies' note but hope to present it this evening.

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, April 17.—The neutral countries are going to forward to the Genoa Conference a demand for land disarmament.

Moscow, April 15.—General Brusiloff in an interview regarding the Genoa Conference with a correspondent of the Izvestia said:

"Rendering almost no assistance, the Allies in the imperialistic war were continuously urging our military command to advance. Every failure at our western front because of this haste resulted in the peril of our armies but saved the Allies from being crushed by the Germans."

"The Russian blood shed in the offensives, which were carried out because of the Allies' insistence, fully paid the mean assistance rendered us by the Allies in cash."

Chang's Troops Are Fired Upon

General Chang Tso-lin's people admit that there may be some superiority in General Wu Peifu's infantry but they assert that the Fengtien artillery is unquestionably superior and they look to this branch of the service to bring victory.

WU'S CONFIDENCE

At Loyang and Chengchow, the utmost confidence prevails. The Chihli troops under the command of General Wu Peifu and his captains are keen for war and fall to see how they could be defeated. Both sides have divided their forces into the regular field divisions, and if their outlook can be accepted as reliable there remains only the initiative to bring about a conflict compared with which the fighting in 1920 will pale into insignificance. General Chang Tso-lin alone among the Fengtien leaders asserts that he desires to avoid hostilities and that his military preparations are merely an argument best calculated to appeal to General Wu and "bring him to reason." General Wu Peifu is more cautious in announcing his plans and simply states that he will fight only if attacked. Whether he will continue to view the preparations of the Fengtien forces as a matter not calling for hostilities on his part continues to be the key to the situation.

Yesterday 500 cavalry of the 1st Fengtien Division were transferred from Nanyuan to Changshien, where they are within about seven miles of General Wu Peifu's advanced troops. It is anticipated that the remainder of the division will shortly follow the cavalry. This is expected to draw General Wu, either in the field or in the negotiations which are proceeding through intermediaries. The main question under the consideration of the Chinese military authorities in Peking is: where General Wu will strike?

BRIGADE ENROUTE

Later reports show that General Wang Chen-ping is not accompanying his men to Hohhot. Only one brigade is en route to that point and it is under the command of General Cheng Chow-liang. General Wang is remaining with General Wu ready, it is asserted, to take command in the field when the tocsin sounds.

At Mukden more elaborate arrangements are announced. General Sun Lieh-chun is to be Commander-in-Chief in the field, with General Chang Tso-chang in command of the left wing with his headquarters at Tschow, General Chang Hsueh-liang (son of General Chang Tso-lin) in command of the center at Yangtchun, General Li Ching-lun in command of the right wing at Chengliangcheng, General Kan Chow-hsi in command of the rear guard at Machang, and the Cavalry division under the command of General Wu Cheng-hsun (Yuanwu of Ichanghsiang).

In the light of these comprehensive preparations General Wu Peifu's comparative inaction is more easily understood, and it is stated by his friends that he is waiting for further developments before moving his men from the strong position they hold at Loyang and Chengchow. The fact that he sent only one brigade to Hohhot, as a defence force for the Tschow arsenal, may be explained by the report current today that the 9th Division, which is said to be faithful now to the Chihli party, after its varied career in the service of Yuan Shih-kai and the Anfuists, will proceed to Shantung. Of the other two doubtful quantities, the 1st and 13th Divisions, it is stated that the 1st Division will side with General Wu, while the 13th will do as it is told by the Ministry of War, probably being retained, in the event of fighting for the defence of the Capital.

The situation at Tschow is now practically the same as it was a week ago. General Tien Chung-yu's men having been withdrawn and the former Chihli garrison having returned.

GREAT EXCITEMENT
Intense excitement reigned at Changshien yesterday evening, owing to the attitude of General Chang Tso-lin's cavalry towards the populace. A number of local residents arrived in Peking today with complaints and asking for redress.

Much uneasiness is being shown in Peking. A run on the banks of China and Communications started yesterday and is continuing today. Some of the foreign and smaller Chinese banks are also affected. The run is in no way connected with public apprehension with regard to the banks in question but is due to the nervous desire of the people to exchange all notes for silver. As usual at such times people are returning here from Tientsin, while others are proceeding to Tientsin to escape the danger that follows fighting in China.

Mr. Chow Tse-chi returned last night from Tientsin but no announcement has been made regarding the results of his visit to Mr. Liang Shih-yi. The train was several hours late, as usual, during the last few days.

Further reports are being received to the effect that amicable relations have been restored between General Wu Peifu and General Chao-Ti. The former remained at Chengchow, instead of proceeding direct to Loyang. General Chao has returned to Kaifeng. It is asserted by General Wu Peifu's supporters that the Yichun, both at Honan and near Peking, will join General Wu if fighting starts.

PLAN NEW APPEALS
According to telegrams from Shanghai the Tschuns of Chekiang and Kiangsu, Generals Lu Yang-hsiang and Chih Hsien-yuan, are about to despatch circular telegrams with a view to averting hostilities in the North. This movement is receiving the active assistance of General Ho Feng-in, Military Commissioner at Shanghai.

With the experience of 1900 still fresh in their minds the people of Peking are taking steps to avoid a food shortage in Peking. If the fighting begins, a mass meeting was held in the Central Park yesterday at which a Committee was elected to take the measures necessary. Generals Wang Hui-ching and Wang Chih-hsiang were elected Chairmen and General Cui Chih-hang and Mr. Sun Chih-cheng (Chairman of the Peking Chamber of Commerce) were appointed Vice-Chairmen. It was suggested that an appeal should be made to Generals Chang Tso-lin and Wu Peifu not to interfere with supplies being brought to the capital as a reserve.

As a political question the claims of rival leaders to military control does not appear to disturb the people of Peking. Both have their adherents among the public, but the main consideration of the people seems to be the securing of supplies and the exchange of notes into hard silver. Among the troops, however, there appears to be more enthusiasm than was shown when Marshal Tuan embarked upon the suppression of General Wu Peifu.

The latest mediation is being taken by Mr. Chang Hsi-shan, the first Tschu of Mukden under President Yuan, and General Chao Erh-hsun, Viceroy of Mukden under the Manchukuo regime, who have now gone to Mukden.

Notes On The Situation

The front line of defense of the Chihli forces is at Kaoping, 17 miles from Peking. This is guarded by the 13th Mixed Brigade and 72 field guns.

Wu has recalled his agent at Peking, showing that he is no longer willing to negotiate for peace with Mukden.

The family of President Hsu has left Peking for an unknown destination. President Hsu, however, has announced that he will not resign for the present.

On account of the seizure of funds by Wu Peifu along the Lunghai Railway, the French and Belgian Ministers have jointly addressed a strong protest against the action to the Peking administration.

Just exactly who tore up the railways is unknown. Some reports say that this was done by the Chihli troops at Tschow to prevent Mukden soldiers from seizing the arsenal, while others allege that the Mukden troops did it to prevent the Chihli-troops from moving any more arms and munitions from the arsenal to Loyang.

Thirteen foreign gunboats are steaming towards Taku as a precautionary measure. No further warning or protest against the stationing of troops near Peking and Tientsin will be addressed to the Central Government in view of the helpless position of the latter, it is learned.

The public bodies in Tientsin are reported to have organized a volunteer corps for their own protection. Uniforms and arms have been secured through the aid of the Tientsin Chamber of Commerce. Two thousand are participating in the preparedness scheme, it is said.

The Honan Tschun, Chao Ti, has avowed his allegiance with Wu Peifu. He has sent Wu a tribute of $300,000.

General Wu Kwan-hsin, the Anfu leader, is recruiting in Tientsin. A large number of his former followers have returned to his forces.

Chih Shih-yuan, Tschun of Kiangsu, is pouring a large detachment of forces into Hsuehchow under the command of Brigadier General Chen Tiao-yuan.

SOVIET PLANS CONFISCATION OF CHURCH JEWELS

Seizure Will Mean Vast New Source Of Wealth

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, March 4.—An Aladdin's cave of jewels has been opened by the decision of the Soviet authorities to confiscate some of the treasures of the Russian churches and sell them to feed the famine sufferers.

(The Soviet decree issued Feb. 26 directs the seizure of all precious metals and stones "which would not interfere with the interests of the various cults." It has been announced that the All-Russian Central Committee will determine what articles are absolutely necessary for religious purposes and exempt from requisition.)

Most famous of the church treasures, described by the Moscow newspaper Izvestia, is the bejeweled ikon, "Our Lady of Kazan" at the Kazan Cathedral in Petrograd. It is a representation of the Virgin done in beaten gold, weighing 10 pounds and decorated with 1,655 larger and 1,432 lesser diamonds, 638 rubies, seven sapphires, 1,400 pearls and 155 other jewels; and hung about the neck of the Virgin is a diamond necklace of huge, first water stones.

At Peter Paul's cathedral, also in Petrograd, there is another famous ikon, known as the "Jerusalem Holy Lady," in solid gold. It is about two feet square, and contains 35 carats of large diamonds, 13 carats of middle-sized diamonds and 14 and one-quarter carats of smaller stones. Altogether, in the church, says the Izvestia, there are 24 almost equally valuable ikons.

To St. Isaac's Cathedral, Petrograd, were presented on the day it was opened, a total of 215 articles containing $1 pounds of gold and 4,788 pounds of silver and later a shrine was built of solid silver weighing 468 pounds. St. Isaac's also has one ikon, 21 inches wide by 28 inches high, done in gold overlay and bearing a wreath in large diamonds. There are a dozen other ikons of tremendous value at St. Isaac's alone.

While these big Petrograd cathedrals, which were long favored by royalty, probably contain the most valuable treasures of the Greek Orthodox church in Russia, nearly every one of the estimated 61,000 other cathedrals, monasteries, convents and churches contains objects in gold and silver and jeweled ikons are not at all rare, even in the smaller edifices.

Royal gifts, donations by pious parishioners and church taxes for centuries went largely into ornamenting the churches. Kazan Cathedral was the holy of holies to the Cossacks. The Cossacks of the Don once sent to it 1,440 pounds of silver, asking that it be made into ikons of four of the Apostles.

Beyond their value in precious metal and jewels, some of the objects might be extremely sought after by collectors. The Byzantine magnificence of the jeweled ikons, however, might impress the Western world as more ornate than artistic.

With a few scattered exceptions, wherein some looting of churches may have occurred during the early days of the revolution, church treasures have been left practically intact.

Pafrlach Tikhon, the head of the Russian church, is understood to contend that, since the church and the state have been separated, the title to the treasures rests in the hands of the parishioners of each church and that, therefore, it is for each parish to decide what treasures it wishes to surrender for the famine sufferers.

He advises charity in this respect, but it is believed in Moscow that the church, as a whole, will strenuously oppose general confiscation, while willing to surrender those objects which it does not consider particularly holy or of essential use in sacramental observances.

RELIEF TO STOP

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 18.—American relief workers will be forced to abandon 25,000 orphans in Transcaucasia and other famine zones of the Near East within the next month because of lack of funds, Charles V. Vickrey, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, announced tonight. He said that activities among 2,500,000 adults and non-orphans in Armenia, Anatolia and the camps of the refugees who fled upon the French evacuation, already have been virtually closed.

WEATHER AND LIQUIDATION HIT COTTON PRICES

Textile Industries Continue To Feel Depression

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 24.—Improving weather over the South and final liquidation of March contracts have been reflected in a somewhat lower level of prices this week, the declines being greatest in the nearer positions. The holders of March contracts have been forced daily to accept cotton on notice, and for the entire month these tenders have totalled in excess of 55,000 bales. Trading in March contracts ceased at midday today; but just prior to its closing, the price dropped to 25 points under May, compared with a premium of as much as 30 points earlier in the month.

It is common knowledge that the same big spot firms who held the March contracts, are also very heavily "long" of May, some estimates placing their holdings at more than half a million bales. Against this cotton they have July sold. In view of this position, it is quite generally believed that tenders of cotton on May will materially exceed 200,000 bales; unless, in the meantime, large shipments are made for export. Already, 20,000 bales are being prepared for shipment from the stock here to Liverpool, Genoa and other European markets. With Manchester's trade improving by leaps and bounds, it is quite possible that much of the local stock will find its way to Liverpool, where there is no over-supply at the present time.

WEATHER IMPROVES

Weather conditions during the last week have improved decidedly in the cotton belt as a whole, and field work is making rapid progress, except in the lowlands, which are badly flooded from the overflowed rivers. This latter condition is likely to continue for at least a fortnight. However, it applies to only a small part of the total area devoted to cotton, and in many districts new crop preparations are reported well up to an average state. The Southwest reports the probability of a good average increase. In southern Georgia some cotton is already up, according to Government advice, while replanting, following the freeze of a fortnight ago, is making rapid progress. It should be borne in mind, however that an early or at least normal start must be had if the South is to produce a crop sufficient to supply the world's consumption in the coming season. A combination of a late crop and the boll weevil might easily be rejected in much higher prices than those now ruling for the new crop.

The final ginning figures for the crop of 1921-22, showing a total yield of 7,976,665 bales appeared to have been fully discounted and made no market impression. The American textile industry continues depressed, and prices on most lines of cotton goods show declines for the week. The spread of the New England textile strike, and the threatened miners' strike, involving more than 600,000 wage earners, suggest a big drop in the country's purchasing power and leads buyers in the primary markets to hold off for the time being. Latest advices from the eastern belt tell of an increased demand for fertilizers, but declare that the farmers, on the average, are very low in spirit.

FINANCE BODY AIDS

The War Finance Corporation continues its aid to the country's industries, and during the first ten weeks of 1922 has extended more than a half-billion dollars in aiding farmers, business and financial interests. Southern spot handlers report a comparatively limited demand for the better grades, but an increasing enquiry for the grades running from strict low middling down Southern mills and Europe are stated to be the best buyers. European interests are also buying the new crop contracts on the futures markets. The sentiment among cotton commission firms is quite generally friendly to the market in the long run, but uncertain as to the trend of price for the immediate future. Should weather conditions become bad, it is not improbable that both speculators and spinners would accumulate the distant positions, regardless of developments in the old crop months, which are likely to be dominated by the operations of the big trade houses.

OPIMUM CONFISCATED

A shop assistant charged with aiding and abetting in the sale of opium at 634 Canton Road was dismissed with a caution at the Mixed Court yesterday, the evidence failing to show that the opium was sold in the shop. A large quantity of the drug, 154 packets in all, found in a desk just outside the shop was ordered confiscated, as was also about $100 in notes which had evidently been paid over in opium sales.

RELIGION AND GOOD TIMES

The Chinese, like the Latin, sees no reason why his religious duties should not be embellished by a good time. Crowds gather around the outdoor restaurants, sitting like boulevardiers at tables under the trees. Punch and Judy threaten out their difficulties in gorgeous costumes and falsetto voices. Edith story-tellers recount the ancient glories of the reign of Huang Ti, while Chinese orchestras a few booths away play the latest version of the Shantung Blues. In the middle of the courtyard there are two white tents lined with Bible pictures, where Chinese Christians put forward the claims of their faith under the very eye of the Pearly Emperor.

Aside from the massive cedar trees in its great, stone-paved court, the Tai Miao has no features of distinction. There is a rough-hewn stone monument supposed to have been set up by Ching Shih Wang, the Emperor who decreed the burning of the books. We formerly had the idea that he was a fictitious personage, and that his deed was created in order to hint that China's culture is older than it is and that much of her best learning has been lost. We have since discovered that his deed of literary arson is an undisputed historical fact, but that it was directed against feudalism more than it was against learning. Wishing to unite the Empire and destroy the loose governmental system of the past, Ching Shih Wang hit upon the drastic plan of burning all literature which might perpetuate the feudal idea. Followers of Confucius saved his works by engraving them on stone and building the stones into the walls of the temple at Chu-fu. Legend says that many of the lost books were later reproduced by a fourteen-year-old girl with a marvellous memory, who had read the classics with her father before the Emperor issued his decree.

PAINTED CAVALCADE

Around the walls of the main hall of the Tai Miao is a painted cavalcade accompanying the Emperor Chien Lung to the top of the sacred mountain. The Emperor and his mother ride in yellow chairs; his followers, astride everything from donkeys to elephants, are being received by blue-robed priests in temples far above the clouds.

Chien Lung is said to have climbed the mountain more than twelve times, taking fourteen days for the journey from Peking. Several of the great monoliths in the courtyard of the Tai Miao were his gifts, and a sceptre of greyish-green jade, half of which is cold to the touch and half warm, still lies in a little Taoist chapel near the main hall of worship.

Besides burning incense to the golden-robed god of the Tai Miao Taishan pilgrims also stop to visit the little bronze house which was carried to its present site from far up the mountain at the whim of an Emperor. Just behind the so-called House of Gold, where wood has largely replaced the bronze, is a little Taoist god sitting under the open sky, surrounded by heroic figures of Buddhist divinities and looking very much snubbed.

From the silent courtyard of the House of Gold, travelers go on to Hao Li Shan, the Hill of the Dead, where happy Taoist souls live in treasure-filled caverns and where wrong-doers are judged by seventy-five gods of special sin. The hill itself is covered with trees and marked by a small pagoda. Close by is a temple sheltering a god with a pink robe and a gold face, where the tortures in the numerous purgatorial chambers are inflicted on plaster figures. Here pilgrims come to pick out the special sin to which they or their dead have been addicted, in order to buy the good favor of its presiding judge. Considering that there are seventy-five departments, it is obvious that applicants are offered a wide choice. We saw one woman badly burning punk before the god who punishes the spoiling of good food by bad cooking. In our opinion this department should be extensively patronized by certain Chinese servants. There are also punishments for atheists, for women who fail to keep their houses clean, for brothers who beat their sisters, for those who are cruel to animals, and for dozens of other sins both in the De-catalogue and out of it.

After having done a bit of psycho-analysis, picked out his besetting sin, and bribed the judge whom he is most likely to meet in Hades, the pilgrim passes out through a cedar-bordered walk lined by small stone monuments, and crosses the city to begin his climb of Taishan.

Peking Airplanes Disabled; Seizure No Longer Feared

British Advisor Removes All Magnetos To Prevent Them From Acquisition

The magnetos of the some 300 airplanes belonging to the Aeronautical Department of Peking have been removed in order to prevent them from falling into the hands of the rival military parties. Colonel F. V. Holt, technical advisor to the department, according to report, visited the Nanyuan Aerodrome with his staff on Tuesday morning and removed the magnetos, following intimations from the Mukden forces that the planes would be seized.

The planes were placed under lock and the magnetos were taken to Peking for safe custody.

Early Monday morning, a detachment of Fengtien soldiers visited the aerodrome and tried to compel a clerk to start one of the machines. A British instructor intervened but the soldiers made a demand for two of the machines. The instructor explained that since the Vickers' loan had not been redeemed, the planes were still British property and no one was empowered to give them away to any military party.

Russia Rapidly Returning To Old Capitalistic Ways

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, March 6.—The pendulum of the Russian Soviet clock is swinging, this winter, as far to the right as it once swung to the left, but the Communist party keeps the key to the works and accelerates its movements or retards them as it sees fit. From a country where, one year ago, private wealth was considered a crime, prohibition of liquor was a state policy and gambling was sometimes punishable by death, Russia has changed to a land of open speculation, where people drink wine legally and openly, and bet on horse-racing by means of betting machines from which the government takes a profit.

These are just a few of the changes since the Kronstadt revolt last March prompted Premier Lenin to inaugurate a new policy. In moving toward a state of capitalism, the government, since the Ninth All Russian Soviet Congress closed a few months ago with approval of Lenin's plans, has taken surgical short cuts in an effort to change within a few months the conditions prevalent for years.

Moscow awakes each morning to a new surprise. It seems only yesterday that private banks were prohibited. Today, a few strokes of the pen of the Commissar of Finance, and private banks may operate at every corner.

Yesterday, hoarding of gold was a punishable offence. Today, another decree and trading in it, making jewels of it, or anything one could want to do with it are legalised.

NEW JAPANESE DIVISION ON WAY TO VLADIVOSTOK

Militarists in Tokio Apparently In Saddle

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 21.—The fact that a new Japanese Division is proceeding to Vladivostok indicates that the policy of the militarists is prevailing despite public opinion in Japan, writes the Times in a leading article discussing the situation in East Siberia and the breakdown of the Dairen Conference. The article says that it is impossible not to sympathize with the Japanese desire to keep the Bolsheviks away from the Pacific coast and thus reduce the danger of their pernicious doctrines spreading to Japan, "but the action of the Japanese in Siberia on many occasions plainly amount to interference in domestic politics."

"They are keeping nominally in power a Government that would immediately disappear if they retired. This, together with the known aspirations of the military party, suggests a desire to create an excuse for standing."

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realizing this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest, quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered phenol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

British Court Ruling Denies Bulk Of Claims In Pomeroy-Quelch Suit

The defendant denies that there was any agreement to give the plaintiff a bonus, that all that he had said was that if on his return he found everything satisfactory he would give plaintiff a bonus but no particular sum was mentioned, and the defendant pleads that this can be considered an agreement then he is not liable to pay the bonus as everything was unsatisfactory on his return.

DENIES AGREEMENT

With regard to the house at Kaslo, Canada, Quelch denies that he had purchased the house on an agreement to pay $4,000 for it, but admits that the house and property was conveyed to him and that he is and has been at all times willing to pay a reasonable price for it, or to convey it to plaintiff on payment by him of the sum due on the counterclaim.

I will deal at once with the house at Kaslo because I hope already intimated in the course of the trial that I am of opinion that a sale had taken place. This particular transaction was so casual and informal and so removed from any definite form of contract that it has been somewhat difficult to arrive at a conclusion. On February 28th, 1920, Pomeroy writes to Quelch: "It is understood and agreed between you and me that in the event of your deciding to purchase the property for the sum of gold dollars U. S. $4,000, which is my upset price you will immediately cable me as your decision to buy and I will enter a credit in my favor on the books of Messrs. Garner, Quelch and Co. in the sum of U. S. $4,000." This was to stand to Pomeroy's credit for one year from the date of purchase, being agreed upon when Quelch was to have the option of paying over that one.

Pomeroy further states that he had already asked Major Retallack who held the documents of the property, to convey it to Quelch without his (Pomeroy's) name entering into the transaction unless absolutely necessary. On the same date Pomeroy writes to Major Retallack stating that he fears his former letters have been rather incoherent, and says that Quelch is coming to look at the property and if he likes it is going to cable to Pomeroy making an offer that he, Pomeroy, has set an upset price of $4,000 "why that sum, I do not know: anyway it is a price."

DETAILS LACKING

He further says he is going to buy, to turn over the documents to him. So far it is a fairly business like arrangement, if they had adhered to it, but they did not. The next incident is a short letter from Major Retallack dated April 5, 1920 from Vancouver, stating that he had that day "executed a conveyance of the Kaslo house and lots to Quelch." Nothing more, no word about price or any other details.

Quelch himself writes from Vancouver on April 7, 1920, to Pomeroy stating that he had met Retallack, who was Minister for Public Utilities, and had been informed that the net income of the Kaslo house was only $23 per month, and little possibility of getting more.

That Kaslo was not a growing place, that the residents were practically all miners, that the value of the house and property was about $2,000, that he could buy a larger house in the city of Victoria for about $1,500. He proceeds: "Mr. Retallack wanted to get the whole thing off his hands. I have agreed to have it transferred to my name at once... and we can fix up the whole thing in Shanghai when I get back, but candidly speaking unless I feel absolutely sure that a better rental can be got it is only a 11 percent investment at $2,000 and then I take the risk of having it empty at some time or other." He then goes on to point out what are the average rentals paid by the miners in Kaslo. The only reply that Pomeroy makes to this is a short paragraph in a lower business letter dated May 8, 1920, "your letter of April 7 at hand and I note your comments re the house. The matter can rest for the time being."

Pomeroy in his evidence states that he knew very little about the house, that he had not seen it since 1907, that it was a wooden house built in 1900 and that he had not been taking any of the rents.

AGREEMENT ABANDONED
The original agreement therefore seems to have been entirely thrown aside by mutual consent. Quelch did not cable his decision to buy at upset price of gold $4,000, but writes making an offer of $2,000. Nevertheless, he does have the property conveyed to him, which is substantial evidence that he intended to buy. He further suggests that the matter shall be finally fixed up on his return to Shanghai. Pomeroy on hearing of the transfer does not enter up to his credit with the firm the $4,000 as arranged in the first agreement, but merely replies,

"The matter can rest for the time being."

The conclusion I have come to on this matter, is that there was a sale of the property for the sum of $2,000 or about that sum, the exact sum to be decided upon when they met in Shanghai.

The next point that I will deal with for the same reason as the former, viz. because I have already intimated the conclusion that I felt bound to arrive at is the question of Pomeroy involving the goods to himself, when starting on his trip to Canada and America as alleged for the purpose of making a secret profit for himself.

On the facts proved before me, I see no intention of any such proceeding. I will deal with the aspects of this trip more fully later in my judgment, but I desire to say now that whatever conclusion I come to as to Mr. Pomeroy's conduct in the management of Mr. Quelch's business in his absence, I am convinced that throughout he had no dishonest intentions of any kind. And I am inclined to think, in spite of the eccentricity and recklessness of some of his proceedings, that he did intend to be loyal to his employer. I will now deal with the case of wrongful dismissal which is the main claim of these proceedings.

RIGHT TO TERMINATE

There is no doubt that by the original agreement they both had a right to terminate their contract of employment at a month's notice. It is alleged by the plaintiff Pomeroy that his agreement was extended in March 1920 by the arrangements whereby Pomeroy was left in sole charge of the business and it is argued on behalf of the plaintiff that his original agreement could not have been intended to stand, as Quelch could not have intended that during his absence in Europe and America that Pomeroy should have been able either of his own accord or by the direction of his employer to suddenly leave his business in Shanghai with no one in authority to carry it on, and the plaintiff pleads that there was an implied extension of notice to a reasonable period viz. a period of six months.

The history of Pomeroy's employment in the firm is: Pomeroy was first engaged in March 1915. In October 1916 he left without notice and remained away for seven or eight months. He came back in January, 1917, and in September, 1917, a previous agreement that they had had together was cancelled.

October 1, 1917, an agreement was written out, but not signed by the parties. It was read over by Quelch to Pomeroy and they agreed verbally to the terms in this agreement. One of the written terms was "It is distinctly understood that you are only employed on a monthly basis and that the arrangement can be terminated by either party on one month's notice in writing."

And at the end of the agreement is written "insert clause for absence without leave." Quelch states that an agreement was arranged between them that Pomeroy must not be absent without leave and Pomeroy in his cross-examination says "Perhaps he did say I was not to be absent without leave."

DISMISSAL WARNING

In any event that such was the agreement is established by Quelch's letter of April 23, 1918, when he writes to Pomeroy "This is to inform you that you should again absent yourself from our office without leave we shall have no option but to give you instant dismissal" and continues with a general warning that they consider Pomeroy's action had already given them the right to dismiss him. This letter is not refuted or contested by Pomeroy. In January, 1919, Pomeroy writes to Quelch "I wish to thank you for your assistance during the past two years and for your forbearance at all times."

In March, 1920, Quelch determines to go to Europe and before going writes out instructions for Pomeroy. Among other instructions are: "Cable bank balance at the end of each month." "Your private drawings must not exceed $700 in one month." "Remit $1,000 to London on 1st of each month in Pounds sterling."

The only reason that plaintiff can bring forward to support his contention that the time was extended for notice of dismissal is Quelch's answer to that is that he has also given a power of attorney to an employee named Lamb, who was quite competent to carry on until Quelch returned. The original months notice was so distinctly stated at the commencement of the employment and so emphasized by subsequent correspondence that I am unable to except the plea that the time was extended.

Therefore I must come to the conclusion that Quelch by his agreement with Pomeroy had a perfect right to give him a month's notice of dismissal and consequently Pomeroy cannot substantiate any wrong on the ground of his dismissal. Having found that Quelch had a legal right to discharge Pomeroy there is no need as regards this point of the case to go into Pomeroy's general conduct of the business. But had it been necessary, there is plenty to show that during Quelch's absence in Europe Pomeroy constantly, I might almost say, habitually disobeyed his employer's instructions.

96 SZECHUEN ROAD

He failed to cable the monthly bank balances although repeatedly, by cable, reminded of his instructions to do so.

He overdraw his private account with the firm from July to October over Tls. 3,000 and got it down to over Tls. 2,000 in November but again raised it in December and January 1921 to over Tls. 6,000; when he had been instructed not to exceed $700 a month, and states in cross examination "I knew I had instructions not to draw beyond $700." He also failed to remit the $1,000 to Quelch in London, although he himself was over-drawing to the extent of "Tls. 3,000" either to pay for purchase of his house or for other personal matter. In a letter of January 1921 he states that he overdraw for the purpose of furnishing his house but now states it was a mistake, and that it was really the purchase money.

He also went on a trip to Canada and America in January 1921 on the eve of Quelch's arrival back in Shanghai in direct disobedience to a cable sent by Quelch saying "await my arrival" to which he answered "Impossible leaving Saturday."

AMPLE GROUND SEEN
There appears to me to be ample ground for dismissal apart from the month's notice in the agreement.

We now come to Pomeroy's trip to Canada, Japan and America. I have already stated that this trip was in direct defiance of his Employer's orders: who had distinctly told him to await his arrival which only meant a very short period of time as Pomeroy by his cables suggests that he expected to meet and pass Quelch at Yokohama on Quelch's return to Shanghai.

Pomeroy maintains that he took his journey for the benefit of the firm. He took his wife with him and part of the expenses claimed are those of his wife's journey and passage money and hotel bills. Pomeroy states that if it was absolutely necessary that he himself should go on the trip and sell the goods, and states further that the goods he was going to sell were goods that there was no sale for in Shanghai. The goods that he took over to Canada to sell and which he considered were "dead goods" as regards Shanghai, were principally champagne and whisky. Now in the first place in December, 1920

Quelch himself was in Canada and could have been communicated with as regards these sales and arrangements "could have been made doubtless for the goods to be shipped to him there. Moreover, on December 6, Quelch had written from Victoria giving Pomeroy the name of an agent to whom the goods could be shipped to him there. (Continued on Page 7)

agent that he could enter into communication with. Quelch writes: "While in Edmonton I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. J. R. Teviotdale. This man is agent for the whole of Alberta for Sandy Macdonald, and mentioned that he would be in a position probably to take some Piper Heidsieck and Heidsieck Monopole and Scotch whisky of any kind so will you please cable him direct? If you do this immediately, it is quite possible that we can do some business with Mr. Teviotdale." and he gives Teviotdale's cable address. The cargo that Pomeroy invoiced to himself in Canada for the purpose of selling there which he said was dead in Shanghai consisted of 350 cases of Piper Heidsieck champagne, 534 cases of whisky, and 941 cases of a mixed consignment of gin, brandy, and rum. That is a total of 2,125 cases, of which there was a possibility of selling 1,184 to Teviotdale, without the expense of travelling with his wife to Canada. (And some of the whisky, he states, he had bought to mix with the "dead stuff," viz. champagne, brandy and rum and vermouth to make it saleable, not literally to mix the fluids but to make up in parcels for sale.)

INSTRUCTIONS NOT OBEYED. But he did not obey his instructions to communicate with Teviotdale and so let that opportunity pass.

He also had Davis in Canada and he actually writes to Quelch February 18, 1921 "It was very fortunate indeed that I telegraphed Mr. Davis to come to Vancouver, for without his connection I would have been lost entirely."

Now what possible reason was there for Pomeroy to set out, contrary to the cable instructions of his employer, on an expensive journey in company with his wife, for whose as well as for his own expenses he is now claiming that he has a right to be paid by the firm.

The venture brought no profit to the firm. I cannot find any reason legal, contractual or equitable for this claim against the defendant Quelch and the firm of Garner, Quelch & Co.

The last point I have to decide is that of the claim for a bonus on the year's working.

The defendant Quelch states that there was an agreement about a bonus, that all he said was "if everything is satisfactory, when I return I will give you a bonus."

Pomeroy states that it was agreed to give him a bonus of not less than £5,000 and that he had refused to remain unless this was agreed, which Quelch denies. There is no reference in any correspondence or agreement to a bonus until August 16, 1920. When Pomeroy in writing to Quelch makes a humorous reference to a bonus, viz., "as a matter of fact we had a splendid half year. Such a good one that I think a little bonus of say £10,000 to your trusted (?) manager might not be out of order."

The next reference is December 24, 1920 when Pomeroy cables "I am anxiously waiting to hear from you about bonus."

On January 18, 1921, Pomeroy writes to Quelch "I think you should give me a bonus of at least £5,000 for 1920 for I think I have earned it" and in the same letter he says "To get proper balance sheet put bonuses in 1920."

QUESTION OF BONUS. The next reference by Pomeroy is after he had left Shanghai in defence of Quelch's orders, in a letter written from California on March 16, 1921, when he says, "Another thing I cannot understand is why you do not mention my bonus. I shall expect at least $5,000 according to your agreement if I made a success during your absence." Now this is exactly what Quelch says, viz., "that if he made a success he would give him a bonus."

But Quelch says that nothing was satisfactory when he returned. He had a balance sheet drawn up by Messrs. Seth, Mancell & McLure which showed a net loss on the half year ending June 1920 of £18,378 and a net loss of £18,378 for the half year ending December, 1920, while the following half year showed respectively profits of £18,378 and £18,378.

He also found that Pomeroy, contrary to his instructions, had been overdrawn up to the sum of over £18,378.

The Pomeroy trip to Canada and America had cost the firm over $20,000. It was decided to dismiss Pomeroy instead of giving him any bonus.

The balance sheets of the auditors, Messrs. Seth, Mancell & McLure have been criticised by the plaintiff.

And Mr. Rosa, a chartered accountant, has been called and has drawn up a balance sheet which does show a considerable profit in the year's working of 1920.

This profit is arrived at by spreading Quelch's expenses on his journey to Europe over subsequent years instead of the year 1920 and by not writing off some of the bad debts, as such, but Mr. Rosa very fairly admitted that as a balance sheet for the purpose of showing the financial position in which the firm stood at that time he had no criticism to pass on that of Seth, Mancell & McLure.

I have had to go into this question of the bonus at some length because these two individuals have been so unbusinesslike in their various personal transactions that it is necessary to display all the facts before daylight can be arrived at: I have come to the conclusion that on these facts which I have set out it would be impossible for me to find that there was a definite agreement between the parties to this action that a bonus of £5,000 or any bonus should be paid on the years working of 1920.

I have now dealt with all the points in issue save the counter claim by the defendant. The defendant claims £5,583.40 due to him on the plaintiff's overdraft and £18,378 on the trip to Canada or in the alternative that an account may be taken of the sums due by the plaintiff and defendant to each other.

On the judgment that I have already given, it follows that the defendant is entitled to some payments on the counter claim. Therefore on the counter claim I find for the defendant as to such amounts as may be shown due to him on an account being taken.

CHURCHILL INJURED (Reuter's Service) London, April 20.—Riding at Easton Hall, Chester, Mr. Winston Churchill fell and was considerably shaken, but it is expected that he will recover in a few days.

QUESTION OF BONUS. The next reference by Pomeroy is after he had left Shanghai in

British Supreme Court Proceedings

Judge Peter Grain was engaged yesterday in the British Supreme Court in a further hearing of the suit brought by the widow of Mr. King Chun-kee against the Shanghai Life Insurance Co. for two-and-a-half percent its premium income of that company for a period of ten years after formation, the wife suing the Company as the legal representative of the deceased.

Mr. R. H. Parker, at present a director of the China Realty Co., Ltd., and previously managing director of the Shanghai Life Insurance Co., Ltd., was cross-examined at length yesterday afternoon by Mr. R. Macdonald, counsel for the plaintiff.

Mr. Parker said that when he came back to Shanghai in 1904 from America he started the Shanghai Life Insurance Co.

"What was your financial position at that time?" "I do not remember."

"Was it good or was it bad?" "Bad."

"Do you swear that you, when you came back in 1904, did not borrow £500 from Mr. King?" "I have no recollection."

"When the Shanghai Life was started the shares bore interest?" "I believe we paid one year but not the first year."

"Was payment of interest discontinued?" "I do not remember."

"Were you the substantial manager of the Shanghai Life?" "Yes, I ran it, but I had the assistance of clerks. I was the chief manager."

"And you cannot recollect why interest was stopped a year after?" "It was not stopped a year after. I must look up. I cannot remember now."

"You know that the Chinese complained and became discontented?" "No, they did not complain."

"When did you first buy shares in the Shanghai Life?" "I cannot remember."

"You bought just after the payment of interest was stopped?" "No."

"When was the Shanghai Life taken over by the China Mutual?" "A couple of years ago."

"At that time what was the extent of your holding?" "I refuse to answer."

"I put it to you, that you were practically the Shanghai Life?" "Absolutely not."

"I put it to you that you bought nearly every share?" "No."

"You deny on oath that you were by far the largest holder of shares?" "The books of the Company will show it."

"I put it to you that shortly after the company stopped the interest you went round and bought shares. You induced the people to buy these shares because they bore interest. You went round and got these shares when the interest was stopped and that is how you made your fortune. You deny this?" "Absolutely."

"When did you leave the China Land?" "In June, 1904."

"How long were you with them?" "One year."

"Were you ever with the China Mutual?" "Not particularly."

"In 1906 to 1908 Mr. King went and served with the China Mutual?" "Yes. He went a year after the contract. The contract was cancelled in June, 1906."

"That was at your request and suggestion?" "No."

"Because he was with China Land?" "No."

"You say that Mr. King was only an employee in the China Land?" "He held some shares. He was a shareholder in the China Realty."

"I put it to you that he was a director and he had 20,000 shares?" "That may be."

"When did you first meet Mr. King?" "Twenty odd years ago."

"I was first introduced to Mr. King when I first started the China Land and Finance Co. in 1903."

"I put it to you that Mr. King was the soul of the Shanghai Life, that he introduced all the people and that he and the people he introduced were responsible for practically all the capital of the Company?" "There was some capital outside of that."

"Can you mention any shareholder who was not introduced by Mr. King or Mr. King's assistant?" "I have not been able to go through the books of the Company."

"You remember the first directors of the Company. They were secured by Mr. King and Mr. So?" "Yes. They secured the first two directors."

"How long have you been working for the affairs of the Shanghai Life, in forming the Company and other work?" "I arrived from America in December 20, 1904 and the company was incorporated in March, 1905. Everything was done in three months."

"How is it that you remember that date so distinctly?" "I know I left the China Land and Finance in May and got back in December."

"If what was the contract with Mr. King not fulfilled?" "The capital was not subscribed."

"Did you consent, as far as you were concerned, that the contract should be cancelled?" "Quite sure."

"You say at that time £100,000 was not paid?" "Yes. The agreement stated that the party should raise £100,000."

"15,000 shares were taken up at £100,000 was subscribed?" "The shares were £100,000."

"That means that more than £100,000 was raised?" "No. It was only £100,000."

"Why did you not call us more?" "We did not need any further money."

"15,000 shares were taken up. Every one taking shares was liable to pay £100,000. What is the use of putting 25,000 shares and permitting these people to pay only five taels?" "In case of any earthquake or anything else we could call up the balance."

"When did you say Mr. So died?" "Towards the end of January, 1905. I am not certain."

"At that time the company was full with funds?" "The entire capital was not paid up."

"In June, 1906 was the company in need of funds?" "There was no urgent need of money. By the balance sheet I do not think there was any need of funds."

"Had it plenty of capital?" "It had the money advertised."

"After Mr. So's death did Mr. King make a demand to view his agreement and did you say that the company had not enough capital?" "That is not true."

"In 1910, Mr. King, Mrs. King, Mr. King's brother and another man were present when Mr. King demanded payment under the provisions of the agreement?" "I do not remember."

"And you said: 'Why are you in a hurry. The moles are all invested. You can get a large sum at the expiration of your agreement?' "Mr. King was a smart fellow. If Mr. King was in need of money he would not be satisfied with that story. That conversation never took place."

"Mr. King also said that he needed some money for his house, some Taels, 50,000?" "Never."

"And you said: 'If you want money it can be lent to you on mortgage?' "I would not tell him that. He knew that."

"I put it to you that subsequently the matter was amicably settled in some way?" "It was never mentioned."

"In 1915 the agreement expired. Do you remember how long Mr. King remained away from the office just before his death?" "I cannot swear. I cannot remember."

"You remember that when Mr. King died you went to the house and a man named Chung So-chin, relative of the deceased was present at the time. You remember him translating what you said to Mrs. King?" "I cannot remember. I think it was after a few months."

"I put it to you that through the medium of Chung So-chin you said: 'You had better show me all the papers. I will put them in order?' "I cannot remember."

"You swear that such a conversation did not take place?"

"I have no recollection of any such conversation."

The morning session of the case was occupied with a further cross-examination by Mr. D. McNeill of the plaintiff and Mr. Parker was called in the afternoon to give his testimony as he is leaving for America early next month, possibly before Judge Grain's return from Tientsin, for which port he leaves today.

The case was adjourned until after the Judge's return.

OIL AGREEMENT

(Reuter's Service) London, April 20.—In connection with the Stock Exchange report that the Shell Transport and Anglo-Persian Oil Companies have concluded a working agreement for marketing their products in Britain for the next five years, The Financial Times says that it is generally believed that an understanding has been reached whereby either concern will supply the other with oil at an agreed price in the event of a shortage. This is important as it indicates that no rate-cutting war is contemplated by either side.

Horse Bazaar Pays 10 Percent Dividend

A dividend of 10 percent was announced at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Horse Bazaar and Motor Company, Ltd., held yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. James Ambrose, supported by Messrs. P. W. O. Liddell, R. I. Pearson and A. W. Burkill, directors; Dr. S. W. Pratt, secretary and general manager; Mr. I. Polgorouckon, acting secretary; and shareholders representing 1,150 shares.

After the notice convening the meeting had been read, the chairman said:

"Gentlemen.—The report and accounts have been in your hands for some time I will, with your permission, take them as read; but before dealing with the business which this meeting has been called, your directors wish to draw your attention to the great loss the Company sustained by the death of the late Dr. N. Macleod who, as you are aware, was a member of your Board for some years and, who, as you doubtless remember, presided at our last annual meeting."

"Your directors deeply regret his loss, not only as a member of the board to which his sound judgment was of great assistance, but as a gentleman who commanded the respect of the whole community."

"Turning to the accounts you will find that while the directors' fees have decreased by Tels 125.00 as compared with 1920, Bank interest shows an increase of Tels 10,977.36 over that item for the previous year, which is due to the large increase in the stocks carried by us, reference to which will be made later on."

"Turning to the balance sheet the following items call for notice: Our overdraft with the Bank on ordinary account is Tels 200,089.30 and on a separate loan account Tels 15,985.80 or a total of Tels 216,075.10, an increase over the previous year of Tels 64,888.62 which is due entirely to the increase in the stock we were carrying at the end of the year under review, which was Tels 65,930.48 higher than at December 31, 1920."

"General Reserve remains the same, viz: Tels 60,000.00, while bank deposits have decreased from Tels 10,007.23 to Tels 3,375.10, mainly accounted for by one debt of Tels 1,190.98 which had to be written off as the debtor, who died last year, left no assets whatever, and you will be later asked to allocate to this reserve a sum of Tels 6,124.90 bringing it to a total of Tels 15,000.00 which, in the opinion of your directors, will be ample."

"Special reserve for new buildings remains at Tels 10,556.71, but it is proposed to add to Stock reserve, which now stands at Tels 18,000, the sum of Tels 90,000.00 thereby increasing it to Tels 108,000.00 the reason for this being that with reduced prices at home, goods can be landed here at lower rates than were paid by us for those we have in stock, and your directors therefore consider it necessary for us to be in a position to deal with any competition from others with small stocks importing goods at the lower rates."

"Bills Payable, Tels 39,688.46 consist of acceptances for goods received prior to December 31 last but not due until later, all of which have since been paid."

"Sundry Creditors, Tels 13,653.16 consists of wages and sundry debts, all for 1921 account, have also been paid and suspense account, Tels 7,468.91 is composed of various items which could not be settled before the end of our financial year."

"Profit and loss account consists of Tels 87,591.16 brought forward from 1920 and net profit for the year of Tels 78,515.65 making a total amount for disposal of Tels 166,106.81."

"The year under review has been quite a satisfactory one in spite of the great business depression which was bound to affect such a business as ours, and I regret to say the outlook for the current year is at present not at all promising owing to political troubles."

"At our last annual general meeting it was hoped by your directors that they would be able to declare an interim dividend some time during the year but unfortunately it was found impossible to do so, but with the consent of our bankers they now propose the payment of a dividend of 10 percent, although the size of the Bank overdraft at the end of the year would have justified them in refraining from the payment of any dividend whatever. Your directors however, as well as your bankers fully realize that in the face of the satisfactory earnings of the company it would have been a great hardship to shareholders had the dividend been withheld two years in succession."

"Turning to the assets you will notice that while our land has a book value of Tels 118,141.17 its value under the last Municipal assessment amounts to Tels 246,899.00, or a difference of Tels 128,757.83 in our favor, which should be considered satisfactory."

"Buildings. There has been expended on these in additions and alterations during the year Tels 7,961.75, chiefly in providing additional garage accommodation and new workshops on our Burkill Road property and these represent a total value in our Books of Tels 144,204.77 as against Tels 138,594.64 at December 31, 1920.

"Furniture and Fittings. It is proposed to write these down in our books to the nominal sum of Tels 1,000.00."

"Machinery and Plant. During the year the additions cost Tels 8,648.84 and consisted of grinding machines, gasoline systems, motor air pumps and various other appliances, and it is proposed to write this account down by Tels 6,517.50, when it will stand in our books at the modest sum of Tels 7,000.00."

"Electric Fittings. The amount of Tels 1,423.53 expended on these during the year is accounted for by the installations in the new workshops and new garage accommodation previously alluded to, but it is proposed to allocate Tels 2,323.50 out of the amount standing at credit of the account in writing these down to Tels 1,000.00."

"General stocks, as certified by your General Manager amount to Tels 486,110.40 which as already stated is Tels 65,930.48 in excess of 1920."

"Your directors hoped it would have been possible to have reduced this item considerably, but unfortunately the business depression prevailing during the year not only adversely affected sales to outsiders but also the construction of motor bodies for local delivery, so that instead of the hoped for reduction, the stock showed an increase with a corresponding increase in our overdraft with the bank."

"The question of stocks has had and is still having the best attention of your directors, but as you are aware our being so far from our source of supplies it is most difficult to forecast our requirements, and business depression must in consequence mean increased stocks, but your directors have every reason to believe that stocks will from now be slowly but surely reduced to an amount commensurate with our turn-over."

"Sundry Debtors, Tels 135,847.08, consist of sundry debtors amounting to Tels 124,067.41 and Tels 11,779.67, mainly amounts of deposits etc., with correspondents abroad. Included in the former are the December accounts of Tels 64,845.94 payable only in January or later, but out of the total amount the sum of Tels 68,970.65 has been collected, and the amount of Tels 15,812.71 showing as being in the hands of the Comptroller on December 31 was banked during January."

"The investment, viz: 20 Telephone shares at cost, showed a profit at December 31 last of roughly Tels 350.00."

"That, Gentlemen, is all I have to say, but if any shareholder has any questions to ask I will do my best to answer them."

No questions were asked and the following resolutions were passed unanimously.

That the report and accounts be passed.—Proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. A. W. Burkill.

That Mr. R. I. Pearson be re-elected a director of the company.—Proposed by Mr. F. Ayscough, seconded by Mr. H. Patterson.

That the staff, at the discretion of the directors, be awarded a bonus of 10 percent on the amount of their salaries.—Proposed by Mr. Ayscough, seconded by Mr. Purcell.

Mr. Ayscough then arose to wish the secretary and general manager bon voyage and a pleasant holiday when he leaves shortly for home. Mr. Ayscough referred to Dr. Pratt's twelve years and more of excellent service and said that the holiday was more than well deserved.

Women Barred As Canadian Senators

(Reuter's Service)
Montreal, March 24.—The Department of Justice ruled today that no women senators can be created in Canada without an amendment of the British North America Act.

The ruling was in response to an inquiry made by the Premier, Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, who had received a request from the franchise committee of the Montreal Women's Club asking whether, in view of the admission of Lady Rhonda's claim to a seat in the House of Lords, Canadian women might be admitted to the Senate.

REBELS SENTENCED
(Reuter's Service)

Amundsen Prepares To Continue Arctic Voyage

Captain Amundsen and his adopted child, his ship Maud, and some of the crew.

COLUMBUS. In the Lake Union ship-yards, at Seattle, Amundsen's Eskimo crew is repairing and refitting the "good ship Maud," in which the Iceland journey will be made. The explorer plans to start for Seattle early in June. The Maud will carry two airplanes for the purpose of making extensive geographic and hydrographic surveys for a thousand miles on either side of the vessel's north-land route. The accompanying layout shows Captain Amundsen with an Eskimo child he adopted, the ship Maud and some of the members of the crew.

TRADE RETURNS FOR MANCHURIA SHOW BIG GAINS

Seaports Have Best Year In Their History

(Chung Mei Service)
Peking, April 18.—The customs returns for 1921 just issued concerning the ports in Manchuria show a distinct gain in trade and an indication of prosperity for the coming year. In the district of Newchwang there was a total trade increase of 17 percent over 1920 and a steady growth in nearly all businesses including shipping. American vessels entered the port for the first time in its history, there being a total of three for 1921, two of them carrying timber and one kerosene.

The gains in the ports of Hunchun and Lungchingtun are even greater. The former show the best year in its history or total trade gain of 100 percent over 1920 while the latter has a gain of 125 percent and comes very close to equalling the best record in its history. Hunchun had an import of one million taels for 1921 a figure which was beyond all expectations.

All of these cities began the year badly, were in mortal terror of the bandit raids which were devastating the country about them, were surrounded by the pneumonic plague scare, suffered bank runs and depreciated currency, but gradually managed to straighten things out. In this respect the Chinese police aided by the Japanese slowly gained control over the bandits and restored confidence.

Great satisfaction is expressed upon the way the Chinese guards have been able to handle the situation after the departure of the Japanese troops and there seems to be unusual satisfaction in the manner in which the Japanese and Chinese police were able to co-operate.

The prosperity came largely as a result of good crops in the interior and the high prices of bean and rice which the demands at Vladivostok created. The money received was put largely into rebuilding the devastated area caused by the bandit outrages. This brought about good business in general.

There was an increase in Chinese exports for all of these ports and a disposition to develop Chinese commerce and manufactures. In this connection Chinese manufactured goods increased greatly in popularity. 5,000,000 taels worth being sold, often in competition with Japanese goods at lower prices.

Lungchingtun has had a connection, thus far without success. A railroad is indeed very much needed. It is now proposed to extend the narrow gauge line from Kamsambo to the Tienpaoan mines, passing through Lungchingtun. The opening of this line is eagerly anticipated, although its effect will not be large in the beginning when the rates must necessarily be adjusted in competition with the cart carrying trade.

New Tariff Bill Up In U. S. Senate

(China Press Service)
Washington, April 20.—The tariff bill was introduced in the Senate today. McCumber, chairman of the finance committee, declared that a protective tariff and the reduction of production cost was necessary "to the reconstruction of the bridge separating production costs in the United States and abroad." measure should not be made an occasion for increased prices. McCumber said that the income of two thirds of the American people was now below pre-war basis. Manufacturers must bring costs within the reach of farmers and wage earners. The State Department has advised the Allied governments that the American Debt Refunding Commission was prepared to begin negotiations for the conversion of war loans totaling $13,000,000,000 into long time loans. It was said at the Treasury Department that additional taxes would probably be necessary to meet the deficit of more than $250,000,000 in the forecast for the fiscal year of 1923 issued by Secretary Mellon.

The Christian Revolution

BY JOSEPH W. HALL

THESE are some of the principles of the new social order. They are tremendously revolutionary—far more so than Bolshevism. This Christian revolution proceeds through reconciliation. It is a great advance. It means living dangerously.

So runs the report of one of the forum discussions at the eleventh convention of the World Student Christian Federation, recently closed at Tsinghua College, Peking. It is a wonder that the Chinese are bewildered over this international gathering from among what is undoubtedly the most virile and educated element of militant Christianity, and which has deliberately, and in the name of Christ, declared war upon the existing social order? We imagine that in many a country more familiar with "radical" social ideas than China, such resolutions would have caused a stir. In Japan, or France, or even the Land of the Free itself, it is quite conceivable that they might have aroused police action. Old China has never before heard religion speak in this wise.

The resolutions of the convention upon the position which Christians should take toward social, political and international economy as practised today have taken the wind out of the sails of the half-baked disciples of Bertrand Russell in the Government Schools who have organised as opposition societies. While these persons have been issuing manifestoes accusing Christianity of being the "handmaid of Capitalism," the Christian students have been discussing in Convention whether or not capital ought to be entirely abolished, with a considerable opinion in favor and a unanimous vote for, at least, rigorous restriction.

Among the striking resolutions of the Forum on "What Jesus Christ Means for the Life of today," are:

In regard to social and economic relations:

"We can not be satisfied as long as any are neglected or oppressed."

"We must strive for education that will develop personality."

"We must seek to secure leisure for all to develop their minds and souls."

"As industry is increasingly organized, especially in the Far East, we must prevent labor from becoming an intolerable burden to the worker."

"We must bring to an end all that keeps men apart."

"We must stand for the highest ideal of woman: her freedom and her equality with men."

"Those of us whose economic advantage gives us power over the lives of others must be ready to surrender such advantage for the sake of closer fellowship."

"We must see that the great chasm separating employer from employed in the more industrialized countries is not allowed to develop in the less forward."

"We cannot be finally satisfied with such a division in society, and must seek to bring all who work in any industry together in some form of joint ownership and control of the property they use for their service to the community. Thus we may help all to be masters of their own lives and also servants of the community working together."

"We must seek for such social changes that production may be for service not for profit, and men shall be released from the toll of making superfluous."

In regard to political and international relations:

"We must form a world family where race prejudice has no place."

"We must accept the risks of loving men always in a world in no means ready for such action."

"If, for example, the business in which we earn our living is immoral we must change it at whatever cost even if it should mean bankruptcy. If we are in an office where corruption is a part of the routine, we must take the consequences of uncompromising opposition, even if we lose our post."

"If any of us see the way of Jesus to be utterly contrary to all war, they must spare no strength to root war out of international life and may have to refuse to take part in it, even if they are shot for their refusal."

"We must make it our aim to embody the spirit of Christ in all social activities, regardless whether they seem quixotic or futile."

Those who espouse this striking program announce themselves willing to undergo the suffering which may be involved in seeing it through. "It means living in danger," they say. "It needs men and women utterly convinced that God is like what we see in Jesus, absolutely loving. It can achieve what we all most deeply desire in our best moments. The very statement of these principles convicts us who state them of our own share in this imperfect society both actively and passively by silence. It also commits us to an unrelenting warfare against social ills and the purifying of our own lives in order that we may take our place in creating a world family."

"Our idea of the Christian church includes the belief, that it is meant to be an instrument in bringing about this Christian revolution."

The great international church conference in Shanghai which is to be attended by a thousand accredited delegates of every mission and native Christian organization in China, has upon its agenda similar topics. The Chinese Christian leaders are to a large extent propagandists of social reform along radical lines, and the Conference, half the delegates to which will be Chinese, may be expected to take a position similar to that of the students' convention on the question of the "Christian Revolution."

Organized Christianity, it would appear, is awakening to a realization that it must not allow socialism, anarchism and communism to steal its thunder in the shape of the social reforms which many believe Christ to have exemplified to a misunderstanding world.

The Spice Of Life

Never Mind the Corridors—"Your name," exclaimed the admiring constituent, "will echo down the corridors of time."

"I don't demand that much," said Senator Sorghum, much affected. "All I ask is that my services may be considered sufficiently worthy to keep my name mentioned in the various political conventions."—Washington Star.

Business Brothers.—President Nelson of Smith College was making a rather tedious journey and was glad when the man who had the seat in front of his turned around and began a conversation. The man proved to be a traveling salesman and took it for granted that Dr. Nelson was another. "What's your line?" he asked. "Mine's skirts." "Well, so is mine," said the president of Smith.—New York Evening Post.

Ditty of the Dear Due Dollar.—An editor has been inspired, after looking over his list of delinquent subscribers, to compose the following: "How dear to our heart is the old silver dollar, when some kind subscriber presents it to view; the Liberty head without necktie or collar, and all the strange things which to us seem so new; the wide-spreading eagle, the arrows below it, the stars and the words with the strange things they tell; the coin of our fathers, we're glad that we knew it, for some time or other 'twill come in right well; the spread-eagle dollar, the star-spangled dollar, the old silver dollar we all love so well."—The Troy Times.

New Revelations Of Marie Bashkirtseff

Bashkirtseff

Copybook Discovered in Nice Villa Shows Writings Of Rare Intelligence

Thirty-five years ago the world was talking about Marie Bashkirtseff, that precocious, beautiful Russian girl, who died just as she was about to win fame in music, painting, literature, or something else, and then of the mother who mourned her and in a villa at Nice, where they had sometimes dwelt, continued to abide and fitted up a room there with the mementos of the departed genius. The Journal of Marie Bashkirtseff has been translated into nearly every civilized language—for she was the first new woman, of an eternal line, who, nevertheless, was rapturously feminine.

And she is still quoted, but possibly remembered more for her enigmatical affair with the French artist, Jules Bastien-Lepage, for he died a few months before she did, almost, if not quite, in her arms.

And then the fond mother gave the public her letters a few years later—the letters in which she contemplated the famous men of France as possible husbands and then discarded them one by one: Victor Hugo was too old; Zola too much of the flesh; Daudet too fantastic; Renan too unassuming, and so on. And then one day she wrote a letter to Guy de Maupassant, which aroused his curiosity and brought a letter in return. He was then the talk of Paris, the great disciple in literary miniatures of Gustave Flaubert. It was before he had produced his novels, "Bel Ami" and "Pierre et Jean," and he was looking around for material. Whatever became of her letters to him nobody knows, but his to her are upon record. And, of course, after making several arrangements, where he might see her at a distance, the inevitable invitation for a rendezvous was dispatched by him. But by that time the whimsical Marie had had enough. So they never met.

POETIC ABANDON

In again reading her "Journal" and "Letters" after all these years it does not seem strange that what she wrote should have excited the wonder and admiration of such men as Gladstone and Charles Eliot Norton, the former of whom sent her mourning mother many precious postal cards and the latter an even more precious letter, for it was just before Sarah Grand had given expression to the calculating "new woman," and Marie, whatever else she may have been, was not calculating. She set down and usually tried to do whatever came into her head. And it was evidently this freshness and frankness and poetic abandon which captivated the great minds of the day. For them it was so unusual. Since then we have learned that thousands of girls have been thinking the same thoughts that Marie thought, but have usually lacked her literary ability to give them expression.

Well, the fond mother, who had never ceased to mourn her Marie, has just died in the villa at Nice, and in the room dedicated to the daughter there has been found an ebony box and in it a black-covered copybook filled with the handwriting of the dead girl, in which she jotted down from time to time her mental vagaries and her impressions and judgments of the human paradox.

They are some day, we are told, to be added to the "Journal" and the "Letters," thus completing a remarkable literary trilogy. Meanwhile Pierre Borel has been permitted to see the black copybook, and from it he has made the following extracts for Le Figaro:

"We should not remember injuries unless we are able to avenge them. To think of them is to accord too much importance to unworthy persons; it lowers ourselves."

"We can make sacrifices in two ways: merely for pleasure or for something great and just."

"Books of the philosophers surprise me. They are the products of the imagination in inverse order. With much reading and time I shall learn the habit, but just now I lose breath over them."

"Vengeance is not a Christian sentiment; all the same, there is something noble in it."

"Let the miserable forget in." juries. But do not forget that we remember them because we cannot do otherwise."

MARRIED BY FAILURES

"We should pay the greatest attention to little things; life is made up of them. By neglecting them we almost become animal."

"We revenge ourselves on one baseness only by committing another."

"What annoys me particularly is to observe that my existence is marred by failures. You understand; I have a certain pride in making my life all beautiful and glorious."

"I look upon it with that ostentatious love of the painter who works on a picture which he wishes to be his masterpiece."

"I am so strangely made that I look upon my life as something which is disassociated from me, and I have put into this life all my happiness and pride. If it were not for that I would be a woman who smiles at nothing."

"Remember well your words: They explain all past, present and future disappointments."

"I who would live seven lives at the same time, can only contemplate a fourth of them."

"I am chained down."

"God will have pity on me, but I feel myself weak; and I believe I am going to die. (This at the age of 16.)"

"If I could only see all that God has permitted me to glance at and understand it, then I would be worthy of Him or I would die."

"For God, not being able without injustice to accord me everything, would not have the cruelty to make an unhappy being live to whom He has given the comprehension and the ambition of what she understands."

"God cannot give me the faculty to see all just to torment me by having given me nothing."

"The one who has fear and goes into danger is braver than the one who has not fear. And the more fear we have the braver we are."

"God not being able to give me that which renders life possible, forbids me to kill myself (December, 1883)."

"I have often told you that I must die. For I can no longer endure this thirst for everything, these colossal aspirations."

"Long ago and many a time I told you at Nice that I already foresaw vaguely what I must have in order to live."

DIFFICULTY OF FORGIVING

"Is it possible to forgive? Can we be the master of our memory? As long as we remember, we have not forgiven."

"Persons who are stupid or intelligent are either too deceitful or too much occupied with their minds to be good."

"Get all you can out of life—get it with joy—and don't try to hide its faults."

"What is not the product of passion is the product of vanity. Vanity and the passions are the masters of the world."

"Prayer is the only consolation left those who can no longer act. It is in Rome that I would like to live, love and die."

"No, listen: I would like to live where I am well, to love everywhere, and to die never."

"Is it any merit to be calm when calmness is a part of one's nature?"

"Never must we give indifferent persons the power to make us suffer."

To which M. Borel adds: "These are, to be sure, merely grains from the treasure house of Marie Bashkirtseff's philosophy, but they throw a flood of light upon her astonishing acceptance of life and people. Her published 'Journal' aroused this curiosity of her admirers, her unpublished 'Journal' which we hope to publish some day in extenso, will make known the hitherto unknown visage of this young Russian genius, and reveal in clearer light her aspirations and her incomparable intelligence."

China's Entanglements

"China, Captive Or Free? A Study of China's Entanglements." By Gilbert Reid. Dodd, Mead & Co. 1921 and Allen & Unwin.

(Reviewed by Prof. Kenneth Scott Latourette of Yale, in the N. Y. Evening Post.)

The name of Dr. Gilbert Reid has been familiar for years to all who know their China. He is a missionary of long experience who has had the initiative and courage to venture on a prolonged and unique effort to further understanding and cooperation between the more thoughtful adherents of the various faiths and philosophical systems of China. He knows and handles the Chinese language with a skill that few foreigners have acquired, and he has a wide acquaintance among Chinese leaders in many phases of the nation's life.

Whatever he writes on China is the fruit of prolonged observation, intimate knowledge, and courageous thinking, and one can be well assured that it should command respect. One who knows Dr. Reid's record can also be fairly certain that he will champion China and that what he says will not commend universal assent.

The volume before us traces events in China from the outbreak of the World War, with its chief emphasis upon foreign affairs. It arrives at conclusions which it is unusual to find in English and which have made the author decidedly unpopular with the foreign groups who were dominant in China during the war. Dr. Reid begins by sketching the history of the encroachments of foreign Powers on China, and goes with some detail into the acquisition by Germany of her leasehold in Shantung. He believes, and with some justice, that Germany was no more guilty than were Great Britain, France, Russia, and Japan in obtaining leased territories and spheres of influence. He also contends that the transaction was no more illegal than are other treaties that have been obtained under duress. He then describes the course of events in China during the World War. He believes, first of all, that Japan should never have taken Kiaochow, but that the responsibility for the initiation of that enterprise rests upon Great Britain as well as upon Tokio. Chinese neutrality was, he holds, violated far more than was necessary, even if Germany was to be driven out of China. He then recounts the familiar story of the Twenty-one Demands, and believes that Japan originally wished and expected China to accede to all of them.

He is especially bitter about the entrance of China into the war, and lays the blame upon the United States and Japan. He felt at the time and still feels that the maintenance of neutrality was the only safe course. On the eve of China's declaration of war he said to President Feng: "I passed through the Boxer uprising; but I have never been so hopeless as to China's future as I am now."

He enumerates all the unhappy sequels: British demands as to Tibet, the Lansing-Ishii Agreement (which he believes to have involved disrespect for and danger to China), the reign of military autocracy and the overthrow of the democratic system of government, the renewal of revolution and internecine strife, increased scope for bringing China in thrall to Japan, dictation by the Governments with which China had associated herself in war, the possibility of China finding herself under a foreign protectorate, and the danger of the spread of Bolshevism to China. He believes that the Allies used China's entrance into the war as a means of crushing German commercial enterprise in China, and so of ridding themselves of the annoying competition of a trade which had been growing rapidly in the years immediately preceding the war.

To him, of course, the Treaty of Versailles is anathema and he will have none of the Wilson League, although he believes firmly in an association of nations based upon an outgrowth of the Hague Tribunal. He outlines a course along which he conceives the future welfare of China to lie, the reconstruction of the country by the indwelling of a new soul vivified by the highest moral energies, the abandonment of militaristic methods, the reunion of the North and South, friendly co-operation with the Japanese, the renewal of Chinese and German friendship, and the building up of a merchant marine. He is decidedly dubious about the consortium, it does not condemn it outright. He discusses Japan's future influence upon China, and is very uncertain about its being wholesome. He believes that Japan should and could win the good will of China by ceasing her high-handed interference in China's affairs, by fostering at home the spread of democratic ideas, and by returning the entire territory of Kiaochow to Chinese administration. He concludes the volume with a series of appendices relating to the subject matter of the body of the book.

From this summary it can readily be seen that the volume is an ex parte statement of one who is trying to be fair but who sees so keenly the injustices to China and the exaggerations of German iniquities which were part of the unfortunate concomitants of the war that he does not give due weight to the other side of the case. That China is in a worse plight than she was in July, 1914, is undeniable, but it is not so clear that she would not have been worse off if she had not entered the war. She would, for example, have been in a far less favorable situation to plead her cause with the Powers, nor could she have taken such long strides towards ridding herself of ex-territoriality. It is always easy to see the evils that have followed from a given decision, but the task of determining what would have happened had there been a different decision is much more difficult and the results highly uncertain. It is, in a sense, bootless to go over the past endeavoring to affix praise and blame. A condition not a theory confronts us, and it is for us and our neighbors to find a means of giving China time to find her way out of her plight and at the same time to do justice to Japan and to all the other interested Powers. To all who are interested in going back to the records of the past seven years in the Far East—and after all, no matter how futile that may be, who of us is not?—Dr. Reid's book, just because it differs so honestly and so decidedly from the views we are accustomed to see in English, will offer a stimulating and a corrective point of view.

head office reports as follows of the hairnet market:
The inactivity in the market continues and stocks particularly of Double mesh nets are commencing to accumulate.

The demand from the United States markets is very small. This is due to the introduction into the American markets of Double mesh nets which is causing according to advices from New York a reduction of about fifty percent in the consumption of hairnets.

Market easy.
PONGEE SILK
The China Merchants Pongee Association writes as follows in their report on the pongee silk market of Chefoo.

Some small sales well reported during the last few days for Shantung and Nippon, Australia being the principal buyer for 30 years length silks.
Stocks of the better grades small and so are the supplies from the flatures.
Future prices will entirely depend on the demand which for the present is very small.

Kapayang Rubber Estates Meeting

The annual general meeting of the Kapayang Rubber Estates Co., Ltd., was held yesterday in the offices of the secretaries, Messrs. Beck and Swann, 30 Peking Road.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. E. T. Byrne, who was supported by Messrs. G. D. Coutts and E. L. Hunter, directors, and shareholders representing 6,480 shares.

The chairman's speech was as follows:

"Gentlemen, with your permission I will adopt the usual procedure and take the report and accounts as read. I am sure you must be as gratified as we are at the result of the year's working, which shows a profit of Tael 2,133.67, a splendid result when we consider the low prices of rubber during 1921 and I think an even lower working cost may be anticipated during 1922—so that we can face the future with a large amount of confidence knowing that in the light of our existence we are equipped with working costs much lower than the average."

"I need hardly say these excellent results are largely due to the man on the spot and on your behalf I have to congratulate our manager, Mr. Knott, as well as Messrs. Barker and Co., our agents, both of whom fully realize the importance of still further reducing expenses."

"The estate has been kept in perfect condition throughout the year, and is amply supplied with labor."

"Our costs, which averaged 58.73 cents in 1920, were reduced to 26.50 cents in 1921, and in January this year were 23.41 cents; Mr. Knott hopes however to reduce this still further, which will be very satisfactory."

"I regret the rubber situation shows but little sign of improvement, but from questions asked in Parliament recently it appears the British and Dutch Governments have been considering some form of restriction of output, and we have had one or two spurts based on rumors of action being taken, but in the meantime we must work out our own salvation and look to producing our rubber as cheaply as we can."

"The report deals fully with most matters of interest but I shall be pleased to answer any questions to the best of my ability."

No questions were asked and the following resolutions were passed unanimously:

Proposed by Mr. E. T. Byrne and seconded by Mr. G. D. Coutts,

The Week's Market Report

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Piece-Goods Trade, Messrs. Noel, Murray and Company write as follows:

Cotton.—Prices in Liverpool are a little stronger this week at 10.25d. for Spot, 10.23d. for May and July. In New York also Spot Cotton is up to 18.10 and the forward rates are higher at 17.91 cents for May, 17.50 for July, 17.53 for October, 17.50 for December and 17.46 cents for January. Prices in Bombay have broken slightly to Rs. 341 for F. C. Bengals, Rs. 369 for Fine Oomras and Rs. 460 for F. G. Broach. Several thousands of bales of cotton have been destroyed lately in fires in Bombay and Kobe.

Home Market.—Telegraphic advices state that moderate lines of Grey and White goods have been booked for China and much is made of the improvement in the Indian demand.

Local Market.—This week the "uneasy feeling" has spread very considerably and concrete results are seen in the suspension of the Auctions of Piece Goods and the arrival of refugees in large numbers in Tientsin and in Shanghai, both of which places, be it noted, are still enjoying extrajurisdictional rights which it is being sought to do away with. This has been a very quiet, tradeless week, four days were holidays, as usual, at Easter, after which the "funk" began in earnest and to taunt people, as it were, exchange is soaring nicely! It is reported that some clearances have been made at not quite the top rates obtainable, also deliveries of cloth from the mills have been brisk. It is noticeable there have been big arrivals of White and Grey shirtings this week and the off-take of those cloths continues to be brisk.

Financial.—A further shrinkage of seven lakhs of syces has taken place and the Silver stocks in Shanghai now are Tls. 28,170,000 and $34,400,000 of which Tls. 5,900,000 and $18,940,000 are held by the native banks.

Auctions.—On arriving at our office on Tuesday morning after the Easter Holidays, we found a more or less excited gathering in the auction room and were informed that on account of rumors of the outbreak of trouble in the interior the dealers were without orders and that the market was likely to be very flat, so that it had been decided to curtail the auction, and offer one package only of each chop instead of as per catalogue.

The bidding was started in a very cautious manner, at several places below last week's prices and after knocking down a few lots to ridiculously low bids and amidst many jeers and chaffing remarks, the auctioneer appealed to the room to say whether it was desired to carry on at such sacrifices or to withdraw the sale completely; fortunately, the latter choice was made on its being that the report and statement of accounts for the financial year ended on December 31, 1921, as presented and circulated to shareholders of the company be passed. Proposed by Mr. G. D. Coutts and seconded by Dr. R. J. Marshall, that Mr. E. T. Byrne be re-elected a director of the company for the ensuing year.

Proposed by Mr. E. T. Byrne and seconded by Dr. R. J. Marshall, that Messrs. Mortimer, Reid and Snee be re-elected auditors to the company until the next annual meeting, at a remuneration of Tls. 200.

favor buying on the easy side of the market. Since our last report, our market has been generally weak, price has eased off some Tls. 3.00 to Tls. 4.00 in sympathy with the political trouble up North. As to future prospects, we continue to regard the outlook for higher prices owing to the fact that stocks locally and in the interior marts are almost nil and mills have sold well ahead.

SPUN AND COMPANY

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly cotton market report:

China Cotton.—Since the issue of our last report our market assumed more or less of a bearish aspect ascribable to a great extent to the impending internecine warfare in the North, and prices have somewhat receded on the local staple although very little is obtainable from the interior marts while the demand for same on the part of spinners has not shown any persistency in that they find it convenient for the time being to avail themselves of the foreign fibre to suit their requirements at prices comparatively lower than that demanded for the local product, taking into consideration the superior quality of the imported staple.

From telegraphic advices to hand from the U.S.A., Liverpool, the Continent and Southern mills are active buyers and while this may prove a potent factor in strengthening prices in Mid-America such may not materially affect the local market, provided silver exchange maintain its upward tendency and which is also applicable to importations from India.

Preparations for the planting of the domestic new season crop has now become general and developments will have to be carefully watched as to the effect of the weather conditions as they materialize from day to day in order to arrive at that point of vantage whereby some insight may be gained as to the future outlook. Tone of the market, Steady.

HAIRNET

Messrs. Yannoulatos Bros (China) write as follows in their their weekly report on the cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows: China Cotton.—The developments in the situation since the opening of the market after the Easter Holidays, has occasioned only moderate price changes and the result of the week's trading shows a decline of one tael. At the close of the market yesterday, however, the predominating sentiment still seems to be in favor of higher prices but the uncertainty which has been felt regarding the military outlook for the near future has prevented the breeding of speculation and if operations could be analysed, it would probably be found that a good portion of the business consisted of the evening-up of old transactions and a fair volume of switches in addition to moderate buying by mills.

The chief interest from now on, will be in the progress of the new season's crop which is to be planted within a couple of weeks. Meanwhile the season being now so nearly over, it may be definitely taken for granted that up-country holdings are insufficient to enable the mills to wait for another crop. Stocks in the interior are very small indeed and the daily receipts have fallen off considerably, while the balance of the up-country holdings will only be marketed at the discretion of the farmers as the season progresses. Spinners may still have to exercise caution but with moderate stocks and a small carry over of the crop to draw from, we may yet find that they are overdoing the pessimism with which they are regarding the future. Any sign that will cause a more cheerful feeling in the world market will, no doubt, also have an effect on the China cotton market.

With the light before us, we cannot therefore escape the conclusion that prices are low enough and favor buying on the easy side of the market. Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, three per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

W.H.C. SUPER-DURABLE PAINT

FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where the temper and of paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

1 Imperial Gallon covers about 150 square yards one coat.

German Consulate Opens In Changsha

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, Hunan, April 15.—A German flag flying from the top of a pole on a large building situated on the bund announces the opening of the German Consulate in this city. Before the war there were a number of successful German business firms here, and now they are beginning to return and reestablish themselves. The Kaile Company is carrying on extensive business in the export of Hunan ores and is also engaged in the import of dyes.

The Consulate just established is in charge of Dr. Joachim Schulze, assisted by Mr. Eberhard Radke as Chancellor or Vice-Consul. Dr. Schulze was in China for twenty years before the outbreak of the war connected with various German consulates. His last charge was at Nanking in 1914.

Chicago, April 20.—"Fatty" Arbuckle, famous moving picture comedian who has just been acquitted of charges in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappo, is through in moving pictures. Nearly ten thousand contracts are affected by the cancellations. Mr. Hays announced, including pictures now in the hands of the distributors and future contracts for recently completed, but unreleased productions.
